GREETINGS FROM THE PRESIDENT OF VANGUARD

---

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the 2022 Society for Pentecostal Studies Annual Meeting at Vanguard University! It's my privilege and honor to welcome you to our campus. It is an exciting time here at Vanguard, as we recently celebrated our 100th anniversary and opened a brand-new student center. Both are representations of God's faithfulness and favor – we are blessed and He is good!

Hosting the 51st SPS Annual Meeting feels like celebrating the return of family members, as Vanguard and SPS have a decades-long history of meaningful partnership. Our hearts are aligned as Vanguard has deep Pentecostal roots, we're planted in the soil of our faith and the fruit we bear is Spirit-empowered scholarship that integrates faith with academic research. I'm also proud that several of Vanguard's current and former faculty members, including Drs. Frank Macchia and Doug Petersen, have served as past presidents and editors of Pneuma, received Lifetime Achievement Awards from SPS or have done both.

We are so grateful for this community of like-minded and Spirit-led theologians and scholars! I pray the next few days nourish your soul, awaken your mind, renew your passions and affirm your calling.

Serving with you,

A handwritten signature in black ink, which appears to read "Michael J. Beals". The signature is stylized and fluid, with a long horizontal line extending from the end.

Michael J. Beals
President, Vanguard University

THEME

The 2022 conference theme explores the ways in which new theories and methodologies support the advancements in Pentecostal inquiry. Important strides have been made in the scholarly understanding of Pentecostal and Charismatic Christianity. However, a reticence remains in appropriating innovative theories and methods that offer a potentially more vigorous understanding of Pentecostalism, its theological and social concerns, its rituals and practices, and what the study of Pentecostalism contributes to these approaches. What advancements promote the development of Pentecostal and Charismatic scholarship? What theoretical trends could assist Pentecostal inquiry? What are the future possibilities for thinking about the experience and activity of the Spirit of God in the world? These are fruitful questions for consideration.

Papers are invited from all disciplinary fields that explore new theories and methods that expand our understanding of Pentecostal and Charismatic Christianity and its theological, social, cultural, and political concerns. Parallel sessions are invited to explore the relationship of Pentecostalism and theories such as postmodernism, deconstructionism, poststructuralism, postcolonialism, postemotionalism, and posthumanism. We welcome the exploration of constructivist and narrative approaches as they support the production of imaginaries, and the concerns of theological construction as it attempts to contextualize the understanding of revelation. Also of interest are papers exploring Pentecostal appropriations of critical theory, race theory, intersectionality, feminist, womanist, and other critical approaches, as well as investigations of the relationship between Pentecostalism and existentialism, phenomenology, embodiment, or other theoretical frameworks.

Emergent Diseases in a Globalized World: The Viral Nature of Racism

Loida Martell | Lexington Theological Seminary

Friday, March 25th at 10:45am

In March of 2020, the World Health Organization declared a global pandemic caused by a new emergent viral infectious agent that popularly came to be known as COVID-19. The United States then declared that the country was under a medical emergency. During that same period, the country, convulsed with the deaths of George Floyd, Ahmaud Arbery, and Breonna Taylor, and a wave of anti-Asian violence, realized it was facing a second pandemic of racism. This presentation will discuss the links between emergent viral diseases (defined as new or resurgent diseases arising in the past two decades), climate change, and globalization. It will further note that the same patterns of exploitation and indifference to created life that contribute to emergent diseases are the ones that have contributed to the anti-Asian violence, racial violence, and health disparities among communities of color. The presentation will close with a theological response by suggesting that the biblical notion of sabbath rooted in Creation, and specifically that of Jubilee, provides a framework, a soteriological “vaccine.” Specifically, the mandate of Jubilee calls upon God’s people to allow the land to rest, to restore and redistribute wealth, and to liberate (deror) the enslaved. Such a call permits the moving of the Spirit, to breathe and to re-create, renewing the land and re-forming the broken relationships between God and humankind, among humankind, and between humanity and creation.

“The Challenge of Anatheism: Revisiting God Beyond God”

Richard Kearney | Boston College

Friday, March 25th at 7:30pm

“What God returns after the death of God? A God of love rather than sacrifice? Of vulnerability rather than theodicy? A God of kenosis and interreligious dialogue rather than one of triumphal exclusivism? Richard Kearney attempts to address these questions with reference to contemporary readings - literary, theological and philosophical - of the Christian Gospel.”
